

WILLIAM E. GARRITY
SENIOR VICE PRESIDENT,
ENERGY SUPPLY

William E. Garrity is the senior vice president of energy supply for Consumers Energy, the principal subsidiary of CMS Energy. He was elected to this position in 2005.

Garrity has overall responsibility to ensure that adequate energy supply resources are available and utilized economically to serve Consumers' electric and natural gas customers. His responsibilities include the supply activities associated with the company's gas cost recovery and electric power supply cost recovery proceedings before the Michigan Public Service Commission.

Garrity earned a bachelor's degree in engineering from Oakland University and a master's degree in engineering-economic systems from Stanford University. He is a registered professional engineer in Michigan.

He is a member of the Engineering Society of Detroit, The Institute for Operations Research and Management Science and a senior member of the Institute of Industrial Engineers.

WILLIAM E. GARRITY